Client-Centered Treatment Services—Helping People Change in Treatment Courts

To achieve the goals of increased public safety and decreased recidivism, crime participants in treatment courts need to be engaged in a self-change, accountable treatment process. Participants have often entered treatment to “do time,” not active treatment and change. Individualized treatment using the concepts and constructs of the American Society of Addiction Medicine’s (ASAM) Criteria and motivational interviewing can help engage participants in lasting change. This presentation will discuss how treatment providers and courts can work together to move people beyond compliance with mandated treatment to engage participants in responsible, accountable treatment and change. The session discusses systems issues regarding sanctions and incentives, policy, and procedures around drug use. Faculty: Dr. David Mee-Lee, M.D., is a board-certified psychiatrist and is certified by the American Board of Addiction Medicine. Dr. Mee-Lee is the chief editor of the American Society of Addiction Medicine’s Criteria. He is president of DML Training and Consulting and is a co-founder of the Institute for Wellness Education in Teaneck, New Jersey. Dr. Mee-Lee has over 40 years of experience in person-centered treatment and program development for people with co-occurring mental health and substance use conditions.

He is a bestselling author, global public speaker, and award-winning documentary filmmaker. In 2000, Kevin attempted to take his life by jumping off the Golden Gate Bridge. Kevin is in pre-production of his new Documentary Series, The Journey, and Hope Dealers. His motto: #BeHereTomorrow and every day after that.
